FRED GOUDGE FREE OF HUNTING DEATH

Jury Verdict Absolves Redwood Valley Man of Manslaughter In Nevin Killing

BORDER-LINE CASE

Fine Point of Law Defines Unlawful Acts Which Are Contributing Causes

Fred Goudge of Redwood Valley, defendant in the second of two manslaughter actions, outgrowths of deer hunting accidents, was found not guilty last Monday morning, the jury spending less than an hour in balloting to reach its verdict.

Following close upon the conviction of Floyd Rucker, whose wild shot cut short the life of his hunting companion, John Silva, August 4, the freeing of Goudge came as a surprise to those not in touch with proceedings of the trial. Apparently the cases were parallel in the most important particulars.

Prosecution for manslaughter hinged largely on the theory that death was caused through the commission of an unlawful act and the fact that Goudge was hunting deer without a license was admitted by him on the stand last Friday when he completely repudiated his previous testimony and told of purchasing hunting license and tags after the date of the shooting of James Nevin, and having the license dated as of August 3.

That hunting without a license at the time of the shooting did not bring the death of Nevin within the statute's definition of manslaughter is due to a particularly fine discrimination.

In the Rucker case the defendant was shown to have been hunting in closed territory, a felony within itself, and the death of Silva was the direct result of the unlawful act, and would not have occurred had Rucker been within the law. The fact that Goudge was hunting without a license did not contribute directly to Nevin's death, as he would have been slain the same, had Goudge provided himself with a license before the shooting. It was a borderline case and a signal victory for Taft & Spurr, defendant's atorneys.

In his testimony, Goudge claimed he had shot at a deer some distance down the canyon in which they were hunting and that the bullet had glanced from a limb of a manzanita bush and hit Nevin, standing a distance of over 100 feet away, and that his death was from an unavoidable accident.

James Nevin was shot on August 6 and died two days later.

Rucker's Probation Plea Will Be Heard

Floyd Rucker, convicted of manslaughter in the accidental slaying of his hunting companion, John Silva, has applied to the Superior court for probation and his hearing will be had today.

Another fine point at law is involved in the application for probation where a deadly weapon is used in commission of a crime. The statute denies leniency where the act is "perpetrated" with a deadly weapon. H. L. Preston, Rucker's counsel, is advancing the contention that without intention to commit the act there was no "perpetration," and will plead the point in court today.

Rucker was found guilty last week by jury trial and judgment suspended pending investigation of his application for probation.

Convicted of Rape Elliott Placed On 10-Year Probation

Found guilty of a criminal attack on Miss Tynne Loikkanen of San Francisco, Ernest Elliott of Redwood Valley appeared in Superior court yesterday morning on his petiton for probation and is now serving a 3-month jail sentence as a first condition imposed by Superior Judge W. D. L. Held.

The term of probation set by Judge Held is for 10 years, with the three months in jail as a first condition. Elliott must pay the county $250 in monthly installments of $2.50 and use of his auto driving license after 5 o'clock p. m. is revoked for one year.

The crime for which Elliott was found guilty by Judge Held occurred on the morning of July 14 as he and the young woman were returning from a dance at Riviera.

The trial was held last week without jury and the public was excluded during the taking of testimony. Judge Held took the case under consideration until last Friday when he gave his verdict of guilty.

Elliott comes of a fine family, but has been repeatedly in trouble because of his wild escapades, two occasions, it is said, being similar to the matter on which he was convicted.

Bunco Man Is Held After Preliminary

Charles Redgate and Tony Valli, who were arrested early in September following complaint of Mrs. Amelia Tomlinson, that they had bilked her of a sum of money by the "confidence" route, were before Justice James Busch Wednesday for hearing. Redgate was held under $1,500 bonds and his partner turned loose when the court became convinced that Tony was more or less a "come-on" for the master mind.

Redgate and Valli operated in Ukiah and vicinity for some time, picking up small sums here and there as advance dues in property purchases Redgate was promoting. Valli went along to furnish a background and promise to pay spot cash for the property under consideration.

Reports that refuse from the California Grape Products plant were responsible have not been confirmed.

Grand Jury Requests New Election Setup

HARRY M. BURKE
Mendocino county clerk receives commendation of Grand jury for report rendered on election expenses.

Cost-finding Session Offers Way to Cut Balloting Expense

The Executive Committee of the Mendocino county Grand jury, under date of October 5, warmly commended County Clerk Harry M. Burke for the manner in which he compiled a report of expenses of the general election of November, 1934.

The letter, in part, said: " We wish to express our appreciation of the manner in which this report was rendered, giving to us exact, detailed information. You can appreciate that a Grand jury requires facts upon which to base a conclusion or recommendation and we are greatly pleased with the information you have furnished us."

The letter to Mr. Burke also set forth the Executive committee's ideas for reorganizing Mendocino county into voting precincts to reduce the expense of elections and asked that the county clerk, the county surveyor and the board of supervisors cooperate in the work of reorganization.

The task imposed upon Mr. Burke by the committee's request for data was a compilation of costs of the last general election. To complete the task required more than ten days of digging into various records of that election, assembling these facts and separating them into the different items of expense. The Great Register was consulted for the precincts' registration for that year, the auditor's office made to yield the records of payment for election boards, rent of polling places in precincts where renting was necessary, cost of delivering ballots and supplies, the cost of the ballots, and all the incidentals which go into the election expense account.

These were divided and sub-divided to show the expense of each precinct and on down the line to the cost to the county of each ballot cast in each precinct, disclosing some weird facts. In the last general election the votes cast averaged $.875 each for the entire county, the maximum cost being $3.65 each, and the lowest $.736. In one precinct the officials were paid $20 for supervising the balloting of nine votes.

Considering that 1936 will bring three major elections—the May presidential primary, the August primary and the November general election—the Executive committee feels and recommends that something should be done to reduce election expenses to the minimum, and that the expense of rearranging the county into voting divisions will be justified by the money saved in the three elections to be held in 1936. On the matter of rearrangement the letter of the committee sad:

"On the basis of the vote cast this county should have approximately 50 precincts; 200 votes are allowed for each precinct. We feel, however, that there must be an allowance made for some small precincts and possibly a total of 65 precincts would be sufficient. If the county were reduced to 65 precincts, the cost of holding an election would, in our opinion, be reduced approximately $750 and when it is remembered that next year we will have three elections in the county, it will be noted that the saving will be considerable. And when this savings is made over a period which would include twenty county-wide elections, a vast saving will be made to the taxpayers."

Public Concern Awakened By Huge Death Toll In Traffic Accidents; 35,000 Killed In U. S. In 1935; Accidents Increase

California's traffic accident record thus far this year has shown slight if any improvement over the same period of 1934, which was the worst year in total traffic deaths and injuries that the state has experienced. Traffic dangers naturally increase sharply during winter months and those months will soon be here again. The coming of unfavorable weather easily may cause the 1935 totals of killed and injured to be as bad as those of 1934, if not worse.

This condition is emphasized in a statement by Percy E. Towne, chairman of the Public Safety committee of the California State Automobile association, announcing that an immediate effort is being launched by the motorist organization to combat the threat of a worse accident record this year. Particular attention will be given to increased dangers that the motorist must reckon with during winter. The statement reviews the situation as follows:

"Complete official figures on traffic accidents to date this year are not available, but the showing for the first seven months is sufficiently significant. The seven months' total of California traffic deaths this year was 1,430, compared with 1,466 for the same period last year. This decrease in deaths might be construed as an improvement, but we find that 25,407 persons were injured in 18,235 traffic accidents, 440 more injured in 169 more accidents than in the same period of 1934.

"The month of October has been designated by the association board of directors for beginning a concentration of activities in furtherance of traffic safety. The effort is not to be regarded as any merely sporadic campaign or drive. Rather it will be an intensification of the constant year round efforts that the association has carried on year after year in cooperation with other groups in the hope of making some headway against the accident problem.

"Were in not for certain very real indications that a change has come about in the apathetic indifference of the public toward the traffic accident situation; the association would feel less confdent of the results to be gained from any safety effort consisting mainly of educational appeal.

"But there are hopeful signs that the country as a whole at last is coming to grips with a condition which last year claimed some 35,000 lives in the United States and caused bodily injury to nearly a million persons, including 2,800 persons killed and 45,000 injured in California alone. Influential publications and the press generally reflect a distinct departure from the old public attitude of squeamishly refusing to face the actual magnitude of sorrow and suffering that are the corollaries of our traffic accident problem. There also appears to be a quickened and more earnest individual response to the implications of the slogan: DRIVE CAREFULLY — YOU MAY BE NEXT.

"As part of its forthcoming effort the association will endeavor to bring to the attention of the motoring public facts and figures and comment illuminating the principles of safe driving and emphasizing the cost of ignorng those principles.

" With an awakened publice concern over the needless tradgedy and waste of traffic deaths and injuries it is reasonable to expect that the effort may save some lives and ameliorate to some degree California's traffic accident record for 1935."

The building was erected in the early 50's by A. W. McPherson and Henry Wetherby. The redwood rafters, 3x8 inches, of clear redwood, are apparently as sound as when the building was erected 75 years ago, and other redwood lumber used in the frame work is in a similar state of preservation—so good that Mr. Heitmeyer will use it for the foundation work ni the auto cottages he is to build.

WHY

Harrison Rock, in Ohio, Was Given That Name

Harrison Rock is so called from the fact, which seems to be supported by undisputed tradition, that Gen. William Henry Harrison, with his military staff, used it on one occasion as a mess table, according to the Cleveland (Ohio) Plain Dealer. This was while conducting the campaigns in the War of 1812 in the Sandusky and Maumee valleys against the British and their Indian allies. The rock was named by Basil Meek of Fremont, Ohio, editor of the Year Book of the Sandusky County Pioneer and Historical association.

General Harrison's headquarters then were at Fort Seneca on the Sandusky river, nine miles above Lower Sandusky, now Fremont. Part of his army occupied Fort Meigs on the Maumee river 400 miles away, a dense wilderness intervening, and haunted with roaming hostile savages. By his order a military road was opened, connecting his headquarters with Fort Meigs, the road passing directly by this rock.

On September 10, 1910, the Col. George Croghan chapter of the D. A. R., Fremont, unveiled a memorial tablet placed on the face of Harrison Table Rock, which bears the following inscription:

"General Harrison's mess table on the Indian trail leading from the headquarters of Major General Harrison at Fort Seneca on the Sandusky river to Fort Meigs on the Maumee river. War of 1812. Erected by Col. George Croghan chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution."

Why "Justice" Is a Woman

The portrayal of Justice as a figure which is blindfolded can be traced to the conception of the Egyptian goddess Maat, the personification of physical and moral law and order and truth. Maat became the personification of Justice who awarded to every man his due. Maat was the "lady of the Judgment Hall." Dr. Alfred Wiedemann, professor in the University of Bonn, writing on religion of the ancient Egyptians, says of Maat that this goddess of truth and justice, who is mentioned in some of the oldest texts, was occasionally represented with bandaged eyes, since justice judges without respect to persons.

Why Body Can Stand Heat

The human body can stand far greater heat if it be dry than if it be wet, and, strangely enough, it can stand far hotter liquids inside than out. For example, the average tea-drinker sips tea at a temperature of about 140 degrees F.—sometimes as high as 145 degrees. But he cannot bear his hand in water at 120 degrees, or his feet in water higher than 112 degrees. Few people can stand a bath in water at 105 degrees.

Why "Lame Duck" Measure Was Given That Name

The "Lame Duck" or Twentieth Amendment, was ratified on January 23, 1933, and changed the constitutional time for the inaugural of the President and Vice President from March 4 to January 20. It changed the time of the meeting of congressional sessions. Under the twentieth amendment the electoral votes are counted by the new congress which meets on January 3 of every year unless congress by law appoints a different day for the meeting. The amendment also provides for the method of procedure in case the President-elect should die or fail to qualify.

The amendment is called the "Lame Duck" one because it eliminates the "lame duck" session of congress which before the ratification of the amendment, permitted members who were defeated in the last congressional election and who were called "lame ducks" to participate in legislation in the short session of congress which formerly immediately followed that election.

Why It Is "Garden of Gods"

The Garden of the Gods is a grotesquely curious rock formation of brightly colored sandstone. "Origin of Place Names in the United States" says that Lewis N. Tappen and three others went from Denver to select a site for a town. They stood upon a rocky prominence and exclaimed, "A fit garden for the gods." Hence the name.

Why of MacGregor and Murray Clan

The name, MacGregor, was proscribed by James VI, for some treachery, fancied or otherwise. Charles II restored estates and name, but under William and Mary the name was again proscribed. It was not until 1822 that MacGregor was restored again by royal license.

Why Cathedral Is So Called

The word is derived from the Greek word cathreda, which means a chair. A church in which is placed the throne or chair of a bishop is called a cathedral.

How the Palisades Formed

The Palisades were originally formed of sheets of lava poured out on the surface of the land, subsequently buried by sediment and later isolated by erosion.

How Swan Produces Sound

A species of swan inhabiting Iceland, Lapland and northern Russia, produces whistling or trumpeting notes through its coiled windpipe.

How Liquid Rubber Is Made

Rubber is prepared in liquid form by dissolving it in such solvents as carbon disulphide, chloroform, benzine, turpentine, naphtha, etc.

Beautiful floral tributes bore evidence of the love and respect with which this pioneer woman was regarded in the community where she had made her home for so many years. She was the mother of nine children, five of whom are left to mourn her loss. All were present at the funeral, including Mrs. Amos Mahurn of Ukah, J. C. Thomson of Ukiah, Mrs. James Allenby of Oakland, Dave Thomson of Fortuna and Mrs. Frank Williams of Willits. She is also survived by 29 grandchildren and 24 great-grandchildren.

Deceased was of pure Scotch ancestry and was born near Ottawa, Canada, October 3, 1839, and had reached the venerable age of 96 years on October 3 of this year, two days before her death. She was married to Robert Redpath Thomson of Ottawa and six of her children were born in Canada, the other three in the United States. The family moved to this county in 1875 and resided here for the past 60 years.

Captain Peter Thomson, an uncle of Mrs. Thomson's husband, was the first member of the family to come west. The first history of Mendocino county says that he had a house, farmed land, and ran a band of cattle at Pine Grove in the early 50's.

Robert R. Thomson and family resided on the "North Hunting Ground ranch," so called by the Indians, for a number of years. They moved to Ukiah valley in 1905. Mr. Thomson died in 1915, and his wife surviving for twenty years.

Talented Musician Dies From Injuries At County Hospital

Mrs. M. A. Campbell, old time resident of Fort Bragg, died at the county hospital at Ukiah Friday morning of last week, and was taken to the Cannarr funeral home at Fort Bragg. Funeral services were held Sunday from the Baptist church at Fort Bragg.

Mrs. Campbell was a talented musician, and gave piano lessons to many coast residents now in their 50's. She took an active part in church and temperance work for many years and continued in it up to a short time ago.

She suffered a fall a few months ago, breaking her hip and was taken to the county hospital for treatment. Her advanced years and feeble health could not stand this shock and she has been failing for some weeks.

Her many old time pupils and friends everywhere greatly regret this passing of a beautiful character. Her only son, Frank, died quite a number of years ago.

Eastern Stars Meet In Regular Session

Misses Patricia and Dolores Sullivan, in charming costumes, executed several dlightful numbers of rhythmic tap dancing under the direction of their instructress, Miss Earline Abbott. Miss Abbott also delighted the gathering with a number of exhibition dances. Miss Ernestine Prather provided the piano accompaniment for the dancing. Miss Audrey Doak, whose histrionics are receiving increased recognition, gave a realistic interpretation of "An Old Maid's First Ride In An Automobile."

The banquet room and supper tables were attractively and appropriately decorated with fall flowers and foliage, in shades of russet and gold. A delicious 3-course supper was served by the Hospitality committee, consisting of Walter F. Sandelin, K. C. Eversole, W. H. Brunner, Dr. J. Robberd Thomas, and Mrs. H. A. Martin.

Professional Women Held First Autumnal Meeting on October 3

The Business and Professional Women's Club of Ukiah held its first October meeting in the Canton room of the Palace hotel, Thursday evening of last week with Miss Esther Redwine presiding. The decorations were unusually well-suited to the season and elicited admiration of all. The tables were lavishly adorned with flowers and foliage in rich autumnal shades of russet and gold, and Indian baskets, filled to overflowing with luscious and colorful fall fruits. The walls were hung with Indian and Oriental tapestries and fabrics. Many of these examples, of native and eastern weaving, belonged to Mrs. L. J. Michelson. The charming scene was illuminated by the golden glow of many tall orange-colored candles.

Mrs. Ardis Roberts, chairman of the hostess committee, introduced Kellogg's Vagabonds, who provided orchestra music during the dinner hour. Also presented were Harley and Frank Branson, who sang several groups of songs in their very pleasing manner during the evening. The star performers were the charming little Patricia and Dolores Sullivan, who delighted the company with several tap-dancing numbers. A song entitled, " You're So Darn Charming," was sung by Harley Branson, in compliment to the two brides present, Mrs. Ella Butler and Mrs. Florence Raines, both of whom, on behalf of the club, were presented attractive gifts by the Misses Patricia and Dolores Sullivan. Miss Earline Abbott, a teacher of interpretative dancing, gave an exemplification of modern tap dancing, to piano accompaniment by Miss Ernestine Prather.

Mrs. R. A. Cushman, a new member of the club, who was introduced by Mrs. Roberts as the speaker of the evening delivered an interesting address on the subject of "The Law as a Profession for Women." Mrs. Cushman was admitted to the bar and practiced law for some time in southern California, and her opinions were drawn largely from her own experiences. She said our limitations are largely set by lack of initiative and courage. Many things that we desire are really obtainable if we reach for them with determination and perseverance.

During the business session, the club voted to hold a Christmas tree for children and plans were outlined for this project. Miss Fern Van Vleck, city school nurse, was elected to membership in the club.

Guests present were Mrs. Libby Sponagle, Mrs. Je Hildreth, Mrs. Ula Ford, Mrs. Cornelia McClure and Miss Fern Van Vleck.

The hostess committee consisted of Mrs. Ardis Roberts, Mrs. Vivien Smith, Miss F. Cameron Bull and Miss Alice Lamb.

A trip to the Hawaiian islands and the South Seas will be the motif of the meeting on October 17 of which Mrs. Bessie Jamison is chairman.

Correct Oil Spells Economy Mileage . . .

USE REAL PENN MOTOR OIL

If you could see the wrist-pins inside your motor, you'd see why such vital parts need a motor oil with special qualities.

An oil that spurts into action — combats both heat and cold — fights friction — stays on the job. That's what wrist-pins need, and so does every other internal part of your modern motor.

To be sure of getting an oil with those special qualities, look beyond brands, processes and claims. Ask: "From what crude was it made?"

REAL PENN motor oil is made from a crude oil sold under the emblem of the Pennsylvania Grade Crude Oil Association. It will perform efficiently and economically under the most exacting conditions.

WHAT THIS EMBLEM MEANS

This emblem is the badge of membership in the Pennsylvania Grade Crude Oil Association. It is nither a brand, nor a pledge of equal quality among the brands using it.

You are protected when you buy oils sold under this emblem, because it assurs you that (a) they are made 100% from Pennsylvania Grade Crude, (b) they meet or exceed the high minimum standards set by the Association to assure proper lubrication of modern motors.

Safeguarding these assurances are: (1) the research laboratory of the Association at State College, Pa., (2) a national field force, and (3) each member's individual surety bond.

Delay of Extra Session Comes As Result of Unexpected Tax Income

EXCEEDS ESTIMATE

$25,000,000 Increase in State Receipts Indicated by Second Quarter Report

Queer quirks of the economic cataclysm, and its equally unpredictable aftermath, the post-depression period, may wipe out California's state deficit, variously estimated at from $50,000,000 to $87,000,000, without any requirement for new taxation.

And the scheduled special tax session of the state legislature, if it is held at all, probably will not be called until after the May presidential primary next year.

Such, at any rate, are the predictions of many of the state's business leaders, based on a sharp upturn in state income from normal sources and on a downward trend in value of the dollar.

By the end of the fiscal year next June, according to the experts who keep an eye on state finance for business and industrial concerns, it is quite probable that the American dollar will be worth about 50 cents, causing a similar write-off in both public and private debts!

And state revenues, already soaring far ahead of official estimates of last year, may increase to such an extent that the general fund deficit will fade away to a point where normal income could be expected to take up the slack in the course of the biennium.

The state's financial authorities State Controller Ray L. Riley and Director of Finance Arlin E. Stockburger, who lean more to the side of conservatism, if not pessimism, when discussing the fiscal condition of the state, fail to concur, at least as yet, in "the brighter view" of the economic picture.

But Governor Merriam, on the other hand, who has every thing to gain and nothing to lose by dodging a special legislative meeting, and who knows furthermore that the taxpayers will call him blessed if it can be avoided, has been quoted quite generally as stating that he does not expect a special call will be necessary.

To support the governor's position, independent tax experts point to the fact that the estimates of income given the legislature last year by both Controller Riley and Finance Director Stockburger have been demonstrated to be exceedingly low by actual income returns since that period.

Department of finance estimates of income from the sales tax for the first quarter of 1935, for example, placed the total at $13,750,000. Actual returns totaled $14,704,000!

For the second quarter, the department of finance anticipated sales tax revenues of $14,200,000. Actual returns with some precincts yet to be heard from, toal $16,752,000!

Based on these discrepancies, financial wizards who keep tab on affairs for both big and little taxpayers, state that it is quite possible sales tax revenues for the biennium will run from $20,000,000 to $25,000,000 in excess of estimates. They emphasize in these calculations that "the Christmas quarter," which always goes over the top, is yet to be heard from, and that the business curve is still sharply upward, indicating still further gains in state revenues.

Influencing Governor Merriam in his desire to postpone the special session from Jaunary until next April or May, if he cannot eliminate it entirely, are many factors. For instance, a true picture of the state's financial condition cannot be had until then, as first returns from the new state income tax, the use tax, the new auto tax and other revenue measures will not be known until spring.

And in addition to these factors, no one, say the experts, will be able to estimate in January the full effect of the upturn in business and industry on state revenues, or the influence of the fluctuating dollar on state debts.

California agriculture, together with business and industry, the home owner and the laborer, and virtually all taxpayers, will undoubtedly hope that the silver lining in the cloud of depression proves to be a reality.

Certainly, if new taxation can be avoided, both officials and the general public should cooperate to make its avoidance a surety.

CHRISTIAN AID BAZAAR

The Ladies' Aid of the Christian church, of which Mrs. Emily Miller is president, will hold a bazaar at the church, Saturday, December 7. Fancy work, suitable for Christmas presents, candy and home-cooked food will be offered for sale at attractive prices. A rummage sale will also be conducted during the day. An excellent luncheon will be served at noon for 35 cnts per plate, and an interesting program will be presented free in the evening, after which refreshments will be sold. The patronage of members and friends of the church, and that of the general public is solicitd.

Lights of New York

by L. L. STEVENSON

When Henry J. Allen returned from a recent trip to Europe, naturally, the ship news reporters pounced on him and Mr. Allen, himself a newspaper man, answered their questions in his usual affable manner. One of the reporters, new to ship news, was uneasy. Obviously the white-haired gentleman being interviewed was some one of importance. But search his memory as he would, he could not place him. The interview closed with no lead that would solve the puzzle. So, in desperation, he asked Mr. Allen where he was from. "Kansas is my home," returned Mr. Allen. "At one time, I was governor of that state. Later I was United States senator from Kansas. I went in with Hoover and I went out with Hoover." The newcomer in the ranks of ship news had no further questions.

Seemingly my mind is running to ship news since I recall another recent incident. Jack Price, down the bay on a special assignment, noticed Ganna Walska up on the boat deck. As he had given considerable space in his book, "News Photography," to Harold F. McCormick's former wife, he went up and reminded her of their last meeting, a number of years ago. Then, photographers, led by Price, were besieging her for her picture. Mme. Walska, after a bit of thought, recalled the occasion. "But times have changed," she remarked with a smile. Yes, times had changed. Instead of being besieged by cameramen, she was waiting for her turn to be snapped.

Another nonpaying theater has been turned into a restaurant. Billy Rose first made the discovery that tables could be profitably substituted for seats provided that along with the meal went a lively show and plenty of music for dancing. Broadway took to the innovation with such patronage that his first enterprise was soon followed by a second. Rose is no longer a part of the Broadway restaurant-entertainment picture but the establishments with which he was once connected are still flourishing. So now there is a newcomer with an undressed show and three orchestras instead of two—and patronage accordingly.

That reminds me of the artist at the Manhattan Music hall. In beret and velvet coat, he goes from table to table looking for patrons who wish sketches of themselves or their friends as souvenirs. That, of course, brings back memories of the old red ink days of Greenwich village. But what I started to say was that the other evening, he stopped at a table where he failed to obtain a commission. The gentleman whom he solicited happened to be none other than James Montgomery Flagg.

Speaking of red ink days of the past, Greenwich village seems to be returning to its own in that respect. With the comeback of beer, the village began to perk up, a lot of building and painting bringing forth "taverns" in numbers. With repeal, there was still greater transformation. Tiny Tim and his soul candy, Sonia, the cigarette girl, and others are gone and Harry Kemp no longer wanders the village barefooted, but some establishments have the old atmosphere, even to tables where there are earnest discussions of the various arts. Others simulate it and gather in the shekels of the uptowners.

The old Holland brick dwelling at Seventeenth street and Irving place where Washington Irving lived from 1833 to 1836, is now an apartment house with a restaurant on the first floor. Several years ago, the Patriotic Builders of America, a woman's organization, undertook to restore the building. The gray paint was scraped off, the entrance polished up and the porch repaired but the depression came along and put a stop to the work. Four years ago, it was purchased by a Union square merchant who still owns it.

According to reports from various reliable sources, the author who nowadays sells a story to the movies is lucky if he gets $1,500, with $3,000 as the top price. It is reported, however, that the movie rights to "Page Miss Glory," brought $72,500.

Bernhard; second vice-president, Mrs. Mark A. Eglin; secretary, Mrs. E. A. Eversole; corresponding secretary, Mrs. E. L. Chelli, and treasurer, Miss Elizabeth Squires.

In the opening exercises, the flag pledge was led by Mrs. J. P. Mason, and the collect for club women was read by Mrs. Louis M. Hildreth.

This first meeting was distinguished by the presence of Mrs. W. H. Higgins, president of the San Francisco district of the California Federation of Women's clubs. In her honor, the official district song was sung with Mrs. Mark A. Eglin leading and Mrs. C. A. Bernhard playing the accompaniment.

Mrs. B. W. Wessel, chairman of the Finance committee, outlined the scheduled work of her department for the coming year and announced that the date of the dinner dance will soon be determined and published and requested that club members save and contribute articles for the rummage sale which will probably be the largest affair of the kind ever held in Ukiah. The date is the first week in December and the committee in charge is headed by Mrs. Ed Porter with Mrs. F. L. Bosworth and Mrs. Lena B. Stout acting as her first assistants.

Mrs. W. D. L. Held, chairman of the board of trustees, reported the reduction and renewal of the mortgage on the club house, and the painting of the building as ordered by the trustees during the summer vacation.

The club voted to continue the cemetery project initiated under the administration of Mrs. C. A. Bernhard, which it is hoped, will result in the eventual establishment of perpetual care for the Ukiah cemetery. Mrs. E. A. Eversole is chairman of this standing committee to which the name of Mrs. C. A. Bernhard was added at this meeting.

Mrs. E. A. Ford, chairman of the September card party committee, reported $28 as the net proceeds of the bridge luncheon given at the club house on September 26.

Mrs. Mark Pike was elected to membership in the club and new members were introduced as follows: Mrs. W. K. Davis, jr., Mrs. E. M. Corbett, Mrs. Hale Prather and Mrs. M. D. Perkins.

The presentation of the new year book dedicated by the Saturday Afternoon club to Mrs. W. H. Higgins, district president, was made by Mrs. Mark A. Eglin, first vice-president of the club. Mrs. Higgins responded by expressing her appreciation of the honor which it was the intention of the club to convey upon her, and made an interesting and inspirational talk on club work.

Mrs. W. D. L. Held, club and district parliamentarian, made the first of a series of instructive talks which she has promised to give during the year on the important subject of parliamentary law. She presented in a very lucid manner, the accepted methods of calling a meeting to order, the introduction of business, and ways of voting.

The entertaining program presented by Mrs. C. A. Bernhard, first vice-president of the club, was initiated by a spirited community singing of popular club songs. Mrs. W. K. Jamison read an amusing one-act play, entitled "A Golf Lesson." By special request, Mrs. M. A. Eglin sang "Thank God for a Garden," by Bel Reigo, to piano accompaniment by Mrs. Hale McCowen, jr. Mrs. R. A. Cushman gave a very timely talk on the subject of the Italo-Ethiopian situation. Miss Elizabeth Squires favored the company with a beautiful piano solo. Mrs. Hale McCowen gave an enlightening discussion of the mammoth character of African architectur, and of the difficulty with which the Egyptian obelisks have been moved to and established in the great cities of the world. Mrs. W. K. Davis, jr., delighted her audience with a clever little vocal number, entiled "Supposing," which she sang to piano accompaniment by Mrs. Hale McCowen, jr. In the beautifully modulated voice which is so greatly admired by her auditors, Mrs. Louis M. Hildreth read a popular poem by Edgar Guest. Dr. Ida J. Holloway, playing her own accompaniment on the guitar, sang an interesting song, called "Signs." Mrs. George W. Davis, one of the new club members, gave an interesting and instructive talk on the subject of 4-H club work. The vocal colo by Mrs. R. R. Byrnes, sung to piano accompaniment by Mrs. Hale McCowen, jr., was a favored feature on the program which was concluded by several group numbers by a selected club chorus.

The meeting was marked by the presence of Mrs. Hale cCowen and Mrs. P. W. Handy, two charter members of the Saturday Afternoon Club, and that of its ranking resident past president, Mrs. W. D. L. Held.

The rooms were artistically and attractively decorated for the occasion with flowers and foliage from the home garden of Mrs. A. R. O'Brien and other flowers and greenery brought from the coast by Mrs. Frank Toles. Delicious refreshments were served at small tables appropriately adorned with colorful fall fruits.

The hostess committee was composed of Mrs. Frank Toles, Miss Grace Toles, Mrs. A. R. O'Brien, Mrs. F. L. Bosworth and Mrs. Andrew Wilson.

Willits News

WILLITS, Oct. 9.—The new style auto parking on Main street is receiving much adverse comment. Under the new plan only about one third as many autos can be parked in a block as under the old system. The city trustees have placed signs on Wood street, between Main and School, forbidding parking at all. The object of this is to keep the way clear in front of the fire house. The new parking was made mandatory by state law and the object is said to give tourists a wider stretch in the middle of the streets. When cars are passing through town at a speed of 60 miles an hour some careless driver might want to back out in front of the speeder and they thus have to reduce their speed to not more than thirty miles an hour. In order to take up the slack the side and back streets are now being used by parties that wish to have their cars parked for more than a few minutes. When we get used to the new plan we will probably like it.

Bill Folz Resigns

Bill Folz has resigned as secretary of the Willits chamber of commerce and his resignation was accepted by the executive committee at their meeting last Friday night. Bill has been secretary ever since our chamber of commerce was organized, about five years, and he has worked hard for our community. He has made it a point to attend about all of the booster meetings held between San Francisco and Grants Pass and has used considerable of his own money in this necessary work. He is about as competent a man for the job as could be found and no fault has been found with the manner in which he conducted the office. Mr. Folz has decided to go in business for himself and has rented the store room just north of Bill Walter's barber shop which is now being renovated. Next week further mention will be made of his new line of business.

Has Bumber Crop

John Rupe raised a bumper crop of sudan grass this year. He had 10 acres planted to this crop which was threshed last week and it went seven big sacks to the acre and made a total of about 10,000 pounds. Unfortunately for Mr. Rupe the price now being offered for this product is only about one-third of that paid last year.

Lots of Shingles

Murray Emery was down from Jackson valley last week and tells us that so far he has been unable to keep up with his orders for shingles although he runs the mill every day. Mr. Emery is now averaging 30,000 shingles per day and the woods crew have hard work furnishing the shingle bolts. The Vassar & Helm sawmill, which is run in connection with the shingle mill, is also behind with their orders for lumber which is sold almost exclusively in northern Mendocino county. Most of the hauling is done by ranchers who haul for themselves.

Armour Coat

Last week a state highway crew gave the Willits end of the Fort Bragg road another coat of hot oil and screenings. This was the second coat and the highway from Main street to the western city limits now has what is known as an armour coat. This portion of the highway is up to state highway standards in every particular and gradually the highway is getting better all the way. Supervisor Bittenbender expects to get a WPA appropriation of a little more than $5,000 to spend on that portion of this highway from our city limits to the James bridge, which is the boundary line between the two supervisorial districts. This road is now in very good shape, but the intention is to widen it for its entire length and thus make it safer. Even now there are but few narrow places and it is a passing road all of the way. It is said that if we get this appropriation that most of it will be used on the worst mountain section, cutting back points and rock surfacing the places where there is a clay formation.

Fined Fifty Dollars

H. L. Hand was fined $50 last week by Judge J. W. Woodruff at Laytonville for setting out a fire without a permit. Hand is a locomotive engineer and lives in Oakland, but he has a summer camp near Cummings. On June 4 he set a fire on his place that soon got out of control and a crew of 18 men had to be sent from Camp Northwestern to put it out. The arrest was made in Oakland last week by Horace Kennedy, chief state fire warden, and Hand was put to the trouble and expense of making a special trip to Laytonville for is carelessness.

At that particular date there was no trouble in getting fire permits from the forestry officials; more than one hundred were issued during the first few weeks of the fire season. From now on the state regulations governing set fires is going to be ruthlessly enforced and all ranchers who wish a permit should communicate with the Willits headquarters.

Buys City Property

Freeman D. Hotskin this week purchased the Mrs. Sarah Butler property on Oak street. This is the third piece of land purchased by Mr. Hotskin in Willits within the past six months. He first purchased the Jack Elliott home on Main street, a few days later the Whitney property on Oak street and this week the Butler property. All three tracts of land adjoin and are being improved. The sale was made by Whitney and Larson.

Nine Arrested

On September 8 the new city ordinance regarding parking o n Wood street between School and Main streets became effective. The city trustees had three no parking notices installed on Wood street and asked Chief of Police Thom not to enforce the ordinance until October 1, so the matter could be given publicity in the local papers and citizens have time to fully know about the matter. On October 1, the local officers started to enfore the new ordinance and so far nine of our citizens have been arrested for parking on Wood street between Main and School streets. Each appeared before Judge P. H. Taylor and have paid small fines. This ordinance was passed to give the Willits Fire Department proper protection and a clear driveway from the fire house.

Young Mother Dies

Mrs. Willis Washburn died last Monday night a few hours after undergoing an emergency operation for ruptured appendix. Mr. Washburn works for the Caspar Lumber Company and his family lives at Camp 19. When brought to the hospital, Mrs. Washburn was in a dying condition as the appendix had burst from 24 to 48 hours previously and the poison had spread throughout her system.

Ethel Bell Wolff was born at Comptche 25 years ago and the family moved to his section about 15 years ago and located on a ranch in the hills east of town. She was married to Willis Washburn about 10 years ago, and two sons born to this union, Robert, aged 8, and Dickie, aged 3.

Besides the husband and children, she leaves a father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wolff, one sister, Nellie Wolff, and four brothers, Fred, George, Earl and Lewis Wolff to mourn her untimely end.

The funeral services were held from the Anker funeral parlors Wednesday afternoon, Chaplain G. H. Jones officiating.

Young Lady Hunter

Probably our most outstanding hunter this season is Lucy Bauman who killed a splendid forked horn buck on Yuba pass, Sierra county, October 1. The same day Dick Lightfoot killed a four-pointer within 50 feet of where our champion huntress made her kill. The party had to drag the dead animals with ropes for half a mile in order to reach their car. The following day Dick killed another buck that dressed about 150 pounds. All of the honors, however, were awarded to Miss Bauman and she has been crowned the most outstanding hunter in Mendocino county.

Fell From Ladder

Sunday morning Philip Quadrio was picking apples in his orchard and was standing on a stepladder. In some unknown manner he lost his balance and ladder and Philip fell in a heap. When he picked himself up he discovered that he was out of breath and suffering considerable pain, but he managed to walk to the house. He was brought to town and Dr. Babcock discovered that Philip had two broken ribs and also had a severely wrenched back. He is now bound up in a corset-like arrangement and confined to his home. It will probably be several weeks before he can resume his duties at the store.

Druids Circle

Sunday was red letter day for Willits circle Druids. Five grand officers came up from San Francisco and made an official visit and they were joined at Cloverdale by five more members. Mary Neil, called mother of Willits circle, was also one of the guests of honor. That afternoon they had their business session which was followed by an elaborate Italian dinner and in the evening the ladies played cards and had other entertainment.

Boy Scouts

The Willits Boy Scouts are fixing up the vacant store room east of the Purity store for their meeting place. The boys have been meeting at the Legion hall.

Ladies Have Luncheon

The ladies of the Little Lake farm bureau had an elaborate luncheon at the Van coffee shop Wednesday afternoon at which more than 30 were present. Following the luncheon they adjourned to Hotel Willits where they spent the balance of the afternoon playing cards. Mrs. Hattie Corbett and Mrs. Mabel Davis, members, came up from Ukiah to attend the festivities.

Checking Up

C. L. Strickland, deputy state forester, Sacramento, was here this week checking up the work in Mendocino county. Unfortunately the force at Camp Northwester, CCC camp, is now reduced to a skeleton because of so many of the men getting jobs elsewhere and the camp will not be filled to its quota strength for several months to come. When this is accomplished the sub-camps, already arranged for, will be established. Young men between the ages of 17 and 26 are now taken in, but they first have to be passed on by our county social agent, Mrs. Martha Toles.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Goforth came over from Finley, Lake county, last week for a short visit with relatives and friends.

Miss Dorothy Brown was down from Laytonville Saturday afternoon.

N. W. Terwilliger and family came down from their Long valley auto camp last week on business.

Mrs. Minnie Luke and Mrs. Margie Seaton spent several days last week in Humboldt county visiting Jud Rich. The latter is getting out split stuff near Garberville.

Mrs. Von Schriltz of San Francisco is visiting Mrs. J. L. Covalt.

Jack Potter came down from Bald hill last week to see our bright lights.

Mr and Mrs. Ed Ryan came down from Covelo last week for a short visit.

L. A. Hodge came up from Ukiah to spend the weekend with friends.

Mrs. Bettie Duncan and daughter Mrs. Carl Beggs are spending a few days in San Francisco.

Ed Eversole and George O'Quest, prominent Ukiah businessmen, stopped off here Monday enroute toGarberville.

Last week a truck brushed up against the box in which the switch is placed that controls all of our strings of street lights and broke it off. The switch has now been changed to the side of the pole. The switch is located in front of Rose's Cafe.

Mr. and Mrs L. V. Ruelle and Roy Whited were called to Stockton by the serious illness of Will Whited. The latter has high blood pressure for one thing and the doctor tells him that he will be laid up for several months.

Deputy Game Warden Ray Diamond has returned from Monterey county where he spent more than a month on a special assignment.

Mr. and Mrs. Al Greenbery spent several days the first of the week visiting friends in San Francisco.

Attorney W. P. Thomas came up from Ukiah Wednesday on a business and pleasure visit.

Elementary Schools May Have Benefits Of Free Libraries

County Superintendent John W. Taylor last week sent to the trustees and teachers of rural elementary schools a letter explaining the rural school circulating library and the purpose of his office to establish such libraries in all schools desiring them.

The matter of circulating libraries was discussed at the convention of rural trustees, held in Ukiah last June, and Superintendent Taylor is now in session to offer their advantages to all schools sufficiently interested to pay the small fee of $10. For this sum each school subscribing will receive a new set of books each month for approximately five years, which is the time necessary to complete the circuit. The only other expense to the individual district will be for shipping the books on hands to the next school on the schedule at the end of the month.

The schedule of the library is to be worked out in the office of the county superintendent so as to supply each school of the circuit books which are new to students of the school, and the list will include such fiction, etc., as is best suited for student recreational reading; material which will be helpful and which will, to a more or less important degree, supplement the rural curriculum.

Mrs. J. H. Hansen and Mrs. Gearge Vevoda are delegates to the Grand chapter convention Order of Eeasern Star, at Coronado, this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Simmerly of Spy Rock were in Ukiah Tuesday, enroute to Oakland for a visit with relatives and acquaintances.

J. C. Philbrick of Willits, in charge of Camp Northwestern, was here last Monday to attend the funeral of Mrs. Mary Jane Thomson.

Quarterly Sales Tax Payment is Due Now

California sales tax for the quarter ending September 30 is due and payable and must be met before October 15 to avoid penalties, according to word from W. F. Whitney, Mendocino county auditor for the state board of equalization, who calls attention to the increase to 3%, which became effective July 1, replacing the old rate of 2½%, in force since the sales tax first became a law.

Every retailer holding a sales tax permit must complete the special sales tax form received from the state board of equalization before October 15 or he will be listed as a delinquent retailer and become subject to penalty.

Many small retailers, selling wood or doing a seasonal business, fail to make sales tax returns and reports if no sales were made during the sales tax quarter. This is wrong as the sales tax return must be made and returned to the state board to clear their files and such are advised that if no sales were made during the sales tax quarter, to mark the return "no sales made this quarter" and return same to the state board in the envelope received with the sales tax forms.

Longfellow's Evangeline Result of Story to Poet

Evangeline of the poem was written as the result of a story communicated to Longfellow long after the actual events occurred and one cannot be very definite on the facts behind it, according to a writer in the Detroit News. In Philadelphia there is a tradition that Evangeline wandered about New England all her lifetime and in her old age joined a sisterhood which cared for the sick. In the Philadelphia almshouse she found her lover on his deathbed and the shock of his death killed her; both are believed to be buried in the cemetery of Holy Trinity Catholic church there. The other tradition is that Evangeline (whose real name was Emmeline Labiche) was exiled with other Acadians to Maryland, where they remained for three years and then made their way into Louisiana. Soon after she landed she met her former lover, who had plighted his troth to another. A few months later she died of a broken heart and was buried near the "Evangeline" oak at St. Martinville, La. A statue of her at that place was dedicated in April, 1931.

Longfellow, in a letter to a Philadelphia journalist, mentions how he came to select the Philadelphia poorhouse and old Catholic graveyard for the final scenes of his poem. This is published in the preface to Evangeline in Longfellow's complete poems.

Octopus Hunting Sport, Business in Warm Waters

Octopus hunting is becoming a business and a sport in the warm ocean waters around southern France. The octopus fisherman equips himself with a long pole and baits the horrible creature just as a bull fighter baits a bull—with a red rag tied to its end, observes a writer in the Washington Post. Under the red flag is concealed a mass of hooks, and when the octopus grabs it the hooks sink into his leathery hide and hold him fast. The sportsman who hunts the octopus, however, swims far out from shore and engages the slimy beast in single combat with a short spear. He wears pearl diver's goggles, swims along looking at the bottom until he spots the octopus, and then delivers the blow. Sometimes the octopus gets a suction on the rocks of the bottom with his tentacles and then it would take a tractor to pull him loose. In such cases, the octopus hunter has to come to the surface for air and wait until the monster dies from the spear thrust, when he can be pulled from the rocks with ease.

The True Horse "Swapper"

There are several characteristics of the true horse "swapper." He slowly looks over the animal and in his own mind picks out the good and bad points. He examines the teeth of the animal and the mouth to ascertain the age of the horse or mule. If he is interested he may ask the owner to unhitch the animal and let him test him out as to stamina or ability as a runner or work animal. If he is interested he will condemn the animal in an effort to make the owner feel the beast is not as good as he had supposed. If the other trader, however, is well versed in this practice, the tricks of the trade mean little to him. Of course, among the traders it is not uncommon to resort to tricks to "ginger" up a "plug" horse and make it appear to be a high class animal, which, when the "pep" is gone reverts to just a common horse and possibly a worthless animal.—Kansas City Star.

Groundhog Great Benefactor

The groundhog, or woodchuck, throughout the year, is a great benefactor of the skunks, rabbits, groundsquirrels, field rats, etc., notes a writer in the Indianapolis News. He tunnels the earth everywhere, and is a much better digger than they. His abandoned dens make homes for other creatures, less able or too lazy to dig them. There was a time when wolves and wildcats made life hazardous for the groundhog. The fox, dog, and man are about his only enemies now. He will run to his den, or dig in, when danger threatens; but he will fight viciously if cornered, and his sharp front teeth are good weapons.

Guillotine Mentor of Fashions

Women shingled their hair as the executioners had cut the hair of their victims for many years after the French revolution, so greatly did that upheaval affect France. Dresses were trimmed with miniature chains, pinions and leg irons. Even the children played with toy guillotines with which they beheaded the toy figures of aristocrats.

Jefferson Favored Agriculture

Thomas Jefferson, third President of the United States and "The Father of American Democracy," was born April 3, 1743. He always regarded agriculture as the best occupation for men and the foundation of all other wealth. He was a scientific farmer for his day and was constantly trying to improve methods and introduce new crops for which he searched Europe.

Camel Stores Water

The camel's extraordinary ability to get along without water is believed due to cells for storing water in its stomach, and to the fat-storing hump, a potential source of much metabolic water.

The prize is a very lovely dressing table and will be delivered to Mrs. Pickle as soon as the strike conditions make it possible. Following is a copy of the poem:

Why Men Prefer Blondes

All through the ages I am told, the way to a man's heart is through his stomach.
Complexion of peaches and cream,
Hair the color of honey.
Men go wild over these
And throw their money.
Lips like strawberries
Picked on a hill,
Papa says, "Spend all you want
And send me the bill."
With figure and grace,
Of a bird or a deer,
Do you not wonder
We poor brunettes fear?
Eyes like the heavens,
Reflecting springs;
No brunette stands a chance
When her fair sisters sing.
So men — hungry beings
That they are
Eat up the blondes,
And look at us from afar.

The column of heights gives the elevation of each tide above or below the level of the Coast Survey chart soundings. The numbers are always additive to the chart depth.

The data is practically the same for Point Arena Light, Navarro River Entrance, Little River Harbor, Mendocino Bay and Fort Bragg Landing. For Westport subtract 5 minutes from the time and for Shelter Cove add 0.8 ft. to high tide.

Business Leaders Declare Confidence

An announcement in the September 30 issue of Time magazine by the Scripps-Howard organization quotes a large number of American business leaders as having implicit confidence in the lasting qualities of the present strong business upturn. The announcement adds that these prominent industrialists "are acting not on blind faith or optimistic guesswork but in the light of the facts and with the courage of common sense."

Some of the expressions are given below to verify the growing contentions that national industry is again "looking up."

Owen D. Young, chairman of General Electric Company—"No better testimony can be given of the belief of the General Electric Company in improved business conditions than the action of its directors raising its dividend."

American Iron and Steel Institute—"The net income of 158 companies in the iron and steel industry showed an increase of 22 per cent for the first six months of this year over last year. The industry plans to spend $140,000,000 during the coming year in plant improvement and expansion."

Alfred P. Sloan, president of General Motors Corporation.—"Encouraged by the more assured outlook for profitable development, the General Motors corporation has authorized an expansion in reconstruction program of approximately $50,000,000."

J. H. Rand, jr., president Remington Rand, Inc.—"We are looking for continuation of business recovery during the next twelve months and are making our plans accordingly."

F. A. Merrick, president Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company.—"Orders received during the first six months were 21 per cent higher than during the first half of 1934. The management has been so encouraged by the improvement in the business situaion as to put into effect a general 5 per cent increase in the average hourly wage rate and the directors recently declared the first cash dividend on the common stock since 1932."

Charles J. Stillwell, president National Machine Tool Builders Association.—"A continued uptrend in machine tool building which will tax production activities of tool builders heavily for months to come is now indicated. Orders being placed and in taken the measure of machinery progress and is ready. Industry can be expected to go through spring and summer of 1936 proportionately ahead of the high average set by the steel industry this year."

R. B. White, president Western Union Telegraph Company.—"Western Union expects to broaden its sales activities and additional services have been provided to meet the changing needs of busines generally. Our plant is being improved and further changes and additions to be made next year will add to its present great capacity."

Frank C. Adams, vice-president John H. Woodbury, Incorporated.—"In 1934 the sale of Woodbury toilet products was the largest in history. But 1935 will top 1934. In the light of what our sales sheets show and the other very clear evidence of improving business, we are expanding our plants and production facilities."

Arthur C. Dorrence, president Campbell Soup Company.—"Plant expansion now under way and enlarged sales promotion activities already authorized by Campbell's reflect more convincingly than words our belief that the progress of the food industry in recent months has been sound and that the present business outlook is promising."

Hundreds of miles apart and with no relation to each other, statements issued by former Senator Reed Smoot in Utah and Senator Peter Norbeck in Washington, D. C., give notice of what is tantamount to saying that the old medicine men of the Republican party had better watch out the kind of prescriptions they make up for the next campaign. "It's no time to rock the boat," says Mr. Smoot. "It will take more than promises," says Mr. Norbeck, "for the Old Guard to come back." — Scranton Times.

"Three years ago I did not promise the millennium for agriculture. But I did promise that I should attempt to meet that intolerable situation in every way that human effort and ingenuity made possible." — President Roosevelt.

Methodist Program For Winter Months Has Many Features

The Methodist church fall and winter program of activities has been carefully planned by the pastor and his workers and is now under way. Recently more than 500 members were reached by letter, requesting united effort in observing October as "Church Recovery" month. As a result attendance last Sunday was most gratifying. The church school attendance also shows an increase, which assures the goal of 300 set for Rally Day Sunday, October 20.

A church-family pot-luck supper has been planned for November 11, to be held in the social hall. This will be a fellowship gathering and a fine program is being arranged for the occasion. The men of the church are in charge of this affair.

The Young People's departments have begun their activities with socials which have been largely attended, indicating a keen interest in the program for the winter.

ad captandum vulgus.

Legionnaires, everywhere, can take a personal pride in the Americanism platform adopted unanimously by the St. Louis convention, demanding: Immediate withdrawal of recognition of Soviet Russia; cessation of immigrants for 10 years; deportation of all radicals and indigent aliens; compulsory fingerprinting of aliens; strict observance of the neutrality act voted by congress.

Adopted by the American Legion, the platform can be heartily concurred in by all Americans worthwhile. It embodies no untenable principals, but does advocate some strngent regulations, which to all right-thinking Americans are above criticism in enforcing the growing demand that the wellspring of American principals shall no longer be contaminated by the putrid streams of anarchy and radicalism.

Legionnaires should find it easy to back the platform to the last man; and every real American outside the Legion should find it easy to back up the veterans 100 per cent.

We Americans, when we get "het up" do a lot of foolish things, and compelling a rampant, red radical to kiss the flag registers with us as the limit of things uncalled-for. Let us catch someone insulting the flag and we grab him by the nape of the neck and seat of the pants, figuratively, and compell him, under penalty of annihilation, to press the folds of the Stars and Stripes to his foul lips. Insult will not wipe out insult, so why subject the flag to such farcical, ridiculous and empty parade.

Now leave it and we can listen in comfort.

Shoving off from San Diego on the cruiser Houston last week for three weeks cruising and fishing, President Roosevelt will rest, read and relax while his lieutenants report upon the results of his speeches and parleys as he made his journey across the nation. Completely covering the opposition for a full week, the president's publicity blanketed their criticism but now that he fishes off Cocos island the air is resoundng with the attacks of his foes.

Undoubtedly the New Deal needed publicity given it aims by the chief executive, past master of approach toward the millions whom he addresses as "my friends." For months the attackers have had the better publicity and their guns have gradually been shifted directly upon the president himself, rather than upon secondary targets. From the day he left the White House, however, until his cruiser steamed into the Pacific, Mr. Roosevelt had the spotlight. How effectively he used it will more subsequently appear.

In his first speech at Fremont, Nebraska, the president drove home to farmers the advances recorded by agriculture, recalling the thirty-cent wheat and twenty-cent corn of three years ago, and contrasting conditions then and now. Pointing out that "for the farmers of the nation the long, downhill road to depression began not in 1929 but in 1920," he insisted that the plan put into practice has "borne good fruit," that the gap between prices for farmers' products and farm purchases has been lessened and that the record hows an increased income of $5,300,000,000 over what the farmers' income would have been if the 1932 level had been continued.

Two days later at Boulder Dam, Nevada, Mr. Roosevelt, speaking at the dedication of that 726 foot wall of concrete, relegated power development to a secondary position and aggressively defended the governmental spending program, which "is already beginning to show definite signs of its effect on consumer spending." He insisted that the government has employed workers and materials when private employment failed, but added that "in two years and a half we have come to the point where private industry must bear the principal responsibility of keeping the processes of greater employment moving with accelerated speed."

On the next day the president stopped to make a short address in Los Angeles. Here he assured his listeners "we have come through stormy seas into fair weather" and appealed to liberals to unite for the same end by "making some concession as to form and method in order that all may obtain the substance of what all desire." In this city, despite reports of a falling off in his popularity, the chief executive received what newspaper correspondents termed the "largest reception in his career."

The last of the four scheduled addresse was delivered at San Diego. In this the president reviewed national affairs along the line of his Fremont agricultural arguments and discussed foreign affairs. He found signs of a restoration of confidence in government and in business, largely as a result of action taken by the administration to adjust our currency, strengthen our banks, restore values and relieve burdens of debt. He declared that "an American government cannot permit Americans to starve" and for that reason it had been necessary to give federal relief. He recited impressive gains: deposits in commercial banks up to $10,000,000,000 or 30 per cent; total deposits in banks $50,000,000,000 compared with $55,000,000,000 in June 1929; deposit insurance covering 98 per cent of the 50,000,000 depositors; lowered interest rates for government and private borrowings; from March, 1933, through June, 1935, he said industrial production increased 45 per cent; factory employment 35 per cent; rural general store sales 104 per cent; automobile sales 157 per cent; life insurance written 41 per cent and electrical power producton 18 per cent.

Calling attendtion to the cloud of "foreign war" he reiterated the American intention to remain "unentangled and free," declaring that this country seeks no conquests and is establishing a "more perfect assurance of peace with our neighbors." He declared that this country intends and expects to remain "at peace with all the world" and hoped that every country would eventually adopt the American ideal of the "good neighbor."

Two additional utterances should be mentioned. At Salt Lake City Mr. Roosevelt called attention to the granting of independence to the Philippines as an object lesson to the world, and aboard his special train, following news dispatches that Great Britain might embark on a larger naval building campaign, gave out a pledge to maintain the proportionate naval strength of the United States in relation to world armaments, by treaty if possible but with the plain inference that if the other powers build beyond treaty limits the United States was prepared to maintain the ratio of 5-5-3 laid down for Great Britain, the United States and Japan.

This, then, is the resume of the president's journey insofar as it related to public speeches setting forth the administration defense, as undoubtedly it was. Mr. Roosevelt plainly undertook to review the past in general terms and restate positions as to the future, to re-draw the issues for those who might care to listen and to consolidate support for his policies. The writer does not attempt to estimate the results of his trip from a political standpoint or to indicate any judgment as to his course as president. That is for the reader to do as he or she is moved.

There is sentiment among business leaders that the president's breathing spell announcement is to be backed by some curb upon government expenditures and this was emphasized by his release of a review of the budget of the nation, as promised in his message of January 3. In it he pointed out that total expenditures were less than estimated last winter and that governmental revenue has been greater. Moreover, especially interesting to business interests, he insisted that the underlying tax structure of the government is stronger than ever before and with normal business will produce "revenues adequate for all essential purposes" so that there will be no need of new taxes or increased rates in existing taxes to meet expenses and retire the public debt.

As Mr. Roosevelt went through the country Republican leaders, meeting to consider the outlook found a "decided trend" in their favor and predicted victory in 1936, declaring that the president was losing ground rapidly and that the east was certain to vote for the Republican candidate. Most of them admitted that the battle ground will be in the west and while reports indicate strong support of the AAA yet the idea prevails, in some quarters that if the Supreme court rules it unconstitutional and the party offers a "sound solution" the farmers in the once Republican territory of the wheat and corn regions can be won back to the support of the party.

No general agreement was effected, as none was expectd this early in the campaign, on a statement of issues. There was, of course, sentiment for a straightout fight between the old line parties, with the Republicans attacking the New Deal and all that it means and leaving to the Democrats the full support of the radical and liberal elements. This, however, did not suit the views of others, who maintained that the depression had demonstrated some evils in the old system and that the best policy would be to frankly recognize the advantages of some business regulation and social security to be improved through experience and at the same time to attack other phases of the program, such as labor legislation, the TVA, the reciprocal tariff act, the utility legislation and Guffey coal law. They would emphasize the Socialistic tendency and laud a "sound money" program.

As far as candidates are concerned there is no present agreement, although Senator Borah has much strength in the west and some strong opposition in the east on account of his currency inflation views. As to former president Hoover, there seems to be some doubt as to his attitud. Some think he is a stalking candidate, others that he does not care to run and still others that he awaits expectantly a tied-up convention, with the idea that it will have to turn to him. Col. Frank Knox has strong eastern support and shows possibility, as does Governor Langdon, recently the recipient of a boost from William Randolph Hearst, the newspaper magnate and former adherent of the New Deal.

The CCC will become a permanent part of American life if the congress approves the legislation to be asked by the president who wants to offer half of the physcally qualified youth of America a year's "hitch" upon completion of their education. It is estimated the 750,000 youths finish their education each year and that 300,000 needy young men could be found to work in the fields and forests of the nation.
